

History of the "Plank Owner"

"Plank owner" The origin of the term is the implication that a crew member was around when the ship was being built and commissioned, and therefore has bragging rights to the "ownership" of one of the planks in the main deck.

Today, however, plank owner is often applied to members of newly commissioned units and new military programs.

This certificate is tendered in grateful appreciation to those who helped stand-up an entire new Tybor career field on behalf of the United States Air Force.
